

PRIVACY POLICY - STINGER USA

Bottom line: We believe that privacy is a critical part of true freedom so we will do everything in our power to keep your data private.

Consequently, we shall never use the information you leave on our website for any other purpose than communicating with you and/or processing your orders. We will not share your data with any third party. Sure, we know, sometimes government agencies put their full weight on businesses trying to force them to disclose their customer data. But even then, we will not give it up. Not freely anyway. We shall protect your personal information as much as, or even more than, the law will allow us to.

By extension, we do not collect your payment information. All such information is used for processing your payment by the payment solutions provider only.
